Elk Point steer named inter-club champion

INTER-CLUB GRAND CHAMPION 4-H STEER—shown by David Naber, a first year member of the Elk Point 4-H Multi Club, was purchased by Rodger McLaughlin on behalf of the Elk Point Co-op for the sale's top price of

$2.30 per pound. Naber's steer was the Reserve Champion at the Elk Point 4-H Achievement Day last Saturday.

Staff Writer

A very proud and happy young man from Elk Point by the name of David Naber, returned home from the St. Paul District 4-H Inter-Club Show and Sale held Monday evening at the Polaris Arena. Not only was his 1,315 pound steer chosen as Supreme Grand Champion receiving a trophy donated by St. Paul District 4-H Council and a banner donated by Lakes Ranches Ltd., it was later purchased by Elk Point Co-op at the incredible price of $2.30 per pound.

Reserve Champion went to Annette Kotowich of St. Paul who received a trophy donated by the County of St. Paul, and a banner donated by Westmin Resources. Her 1,260 pound steer was purchased by Letourneau Farm Supply for an excellent price of $2.15 per pound.

Winners and runners-up in the different weight classes were presented with a belt buckle during the parade of champions.

Excitement and tension was high as the day began for the 4-H members, steers were cleaned, polished and groomed for the competition. The animals gleamed with good health and loving care. Stalls and gear boxes were cleaned and readied for 1:00 p.m., when the achievement day program began. Pictures were taken of each 4-H member to be later presented to the buyer of each steer.

After the 4-H pledge, Mistress of Ceremonies, District Agriculturalist Kirsty Piquette welcomed the crowd, explained the upcoming events and introduced MLA John Drobot; Conformation Judge Mac Creech from Lloydminster; Showmanship and Grooming Judge Noble Belschheim, from Tullibee Lake; Stall and Club Display Judges, Monica King and Edith Zawadiuk. Ringmaster was Ray Guilbault. Clubs from Heinsburg, Goodridge, St. Lina, St. Paul and Elk Point participated.

The senior showmanship trophy sponsored by Langevin Builders Ltd. went to Annette Kotowich (St. Paul), with the second place Treasury Branch trophy going to Andy Kotowich (St.

Budget down - taxes up

The Town of Elk Point brought down their 1989 Municipal Budget at Monday night's regular meeting, with all three readings given to the bylaw establishing the rates of taxation for the 1989 fiscal year.

The mill rate for municipal operations remains at the 1988 level of 9.88 mills, in spite of inflation, however a sizeable jump in requisitions for school, hospital district, planning fund and M. D. of St. Paul Foundation will make a dent in ratepayers' wallets. The total Residential tax is set at 19.922 mills, up from 18.150 mills in 1988, while Non-Residential taxes will rise from 23.555 mills in 1988 to 25.609 mills this year. A further break-down of the mill rate will be enclosed with the tax notices, showing the mill rate for each of the requisitions.

Although far from the first-quarter completion date hoped for by Council, the budget was completed more than two weeks earlier than last year, and 25 days ahead of the June 30 deadline.

In other business coming before Council, draft terms of reference for the Community Impact Assessment Study update are to be discussed by a committee of three Council members, along with the funding requirements for the study.

Reduced purchase prices for the residential and industrial land bank properties and industrial land development have been offered to the Town by Alberta Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Council agreed to invite R. M. Fornasero of AMHC to the next regular meeting to discuss the proposal.

Temporary closure of municipal streets for the Canada Day Parade was approved, and the attendance of Mayor Bruce Kleeberger as a participant in the parade was confirmed.

The first meeting of the interim board of the Northeast Library System will be held June 17, and Councillor Allan Frankiw was asked to represent Elk Point at this meeting, with Administrator Pat Vincent as alternate.

A suggestion that present staff training be upgraded to cover office duties during the maternity leave of Jenny Scott, rather than bringing in outside help, was considered by Council.

With the original $15,000 allotment for further recreational land development cut from the budget, Council agreed to determine the project's eligibility for an ABCD Grant, and to apply for funding under the program if possible. The Mayor and administrator will approach MLA John Drobot to determine if funding is available under any program for the Mural Park development. Councillor Buck cautioned Council regarding the 'humongous upkeep cost' which the Town could face in the future if too much park area is developed in Elk Point.

Mayor Kleeberger and Councillors Buck and Schuhmacher were appointed to the Court of Revision for a hearing scheduled for Monday, June 19 at 6:30 p.m.. Administrator Pat Vincent was appointed to serve as Clerk of the Court of Revision.

Councillor Ed Buck was sworn in as Deputy Mayor for the balance of the current term of administration, replacing Councillor Steve Stepaniuk, who was given a round of applause for his efforts over the past six months.

NEW DEPUTY MAYOR—Ed Buck is sworn in by Mayor Bruce Kleeberger. Buck will continue in this position until the October general election.

Off to Provincials

Michael Bespalko will head to the Provincial Track and Field championships in Calgary this weekend, following his gold medal win in Junior Boys' Triple Jump at the Regional level in Fort McMurray June 3.

Three other F. G. Miller High School students also took part in the Regional level meet, with Lori Irvine competing in Junior Girls High Jump, Bryan Bespalko in Junior Boys Discus, and Rick Rybchinsky in Intermediate Boys Shot Put.

Crop report

Some frost damage to oats and canola was reported last week following minus 6 degree temperatures on the evening of May 27, but crops seem to be recovering well.

Moisture from showers has been spotty, with some areas having good soil moisture while others could use additional rainfall. Growth prospects are rated good.

Seeding is nearing completion, with wheat seeding totally completed, barley 85 percent seeded, and oats and canola 80 percent seeded. Early seeded wheat is almost ready to spray.

Museum tour

On Friday, June 1, Mr. Martin and Mr. O'Neill took the Grade 8 classes from F. G. Miller Junior-Senior High School to St. Paul for the afternoon. They visited the Cultural Centre's displays on Ferries of Alberta and the Ukrainian Millennium. Before leaving St. Paul, the students went bowling. Top scores were: Denis Jaskinsky 207, Christine Seniuk 162, Edwin Kulczycki 153, Kara Serniak 144, and Roger DeMoissac 142 for his first try at bowling.

There were a few tears as members parted with the animals they had loved and cared for since last fall, but the top price each steer received showed that the caring and hard work pays off in the end.

We won! We won!

The Town of Elk Point made the Town of St. Paul in last Wednesday's Participaction Slow-pitch game, with a one-run, 17-16 victory against the hosting team. With last year's St. Paul victory, this makes it a 1-1 record going into next year's tiebreaker. Way to go, Elk Point!

Participactors on the home front didn't do quite as well, with frequent showers plaguing the Elementary School track meet, the free golfing at the Golf and Country Club, and the Recreation Department's wiener roast and hiking trail tours. In spite of the weather, 507 registrants reported their Participaction events, for a final result of 36 percent.

Local merchants again played a part in the Participaction events, with Stedmans donating a pair of new sneakers for the Stinky Sneaker Contest, and Elk Point Meat Processors, Tags, CBM Confectionery, Elk Point Co-op and Elk Point Chamber of Commerce donating toward the wiener roast and other activities.

WINNER BY A SHOE-IN—Mark Boulter accepts a certificate for a new pair of sneakers from Stedmans, after his well-worn footwear was judged the winner of the Stinky Sneaker Contest by Mayor Bruce Kleeberger.

PARTICIPACTING DODGE-BALL STYLE—Elk Point Elementary School students enjoyed a lively game of Dodge-Ball as part of their Participaction Day activities.

RAINED-OUT COOK-OUT—Recreation Coordinator Gail Kozicky served up barbecued hot dogs to the small crowd which braved an oncoming rain-storm to take part in the Rec Department Participaction events at the Golf Course and Recreation Land. Some minutes later, a deluge sent soggy Participactors scurrying for their vehicles.

Editorial

Seniors are super!

A happy Senior Citizens' Week to all those great folks out there who have devoted their efforts to the building and development of our fine community through the years. A substantial number of these people have not leaned back to rest on their laurels, but have ignored society's suggestions that retirement is in order, to continue their good works long after they cash that first pension cheque.

We cannot even begin to list all the achievements and endeavors that the senior sector of our population has contributed, and continues to contribute. We would, however, like to mention a few of these people, whose interests and involvement affect many areas of our daily lives.

Just yesterday, we saw Edith Mitchell busily engaged in filling the flower beds at the Public Library with her thriving bedding plants. Each year, Elk Point's planters and public places are brightened with her carefully tended blooms, and we are cheered by their color on the rainiest day.

A recent announcement that Margaret Modin is retiring from the Further Education Council, after many years as Chairperson and many more as Coordinator, has left that group somewhat distressed. Where will they find another person with this steadfast dedication to replace her?

Our own Irene Magnusson has delighted readers near and far for many years with her writing and photography. 'Alberta Trails' have led her readers to enjoy her journeys and adventures, whether to distant parts of the country or to find the beauty in her own backyard. With two volumes of her poetry and a book of prose produced by her 1980 creative writing class to her credit, Mrs. Magnusson is a valued member of the new writers' group recently started in Elk Point.

Steve Andrishak is just barely a senior citizen, but his interests go way back in time. Since childhood, the urge to collect and preserve the past has led Andrishak on hunting expeditions for artifacts and memorabilia, resulting in the vast collection which fills his private Fort George Museum.

Also deeply involved with the preservation of the past, to the extent that he received a recent award from the Historical Resources Foundation, is Sid Holthe. This week, however, Holthe's focus is on his duties as part of the Seniors Secretariat, which addresses the needs and concerns of senior citizens throughout Alberta on an ongoing basis.

Community promotion and involvement have been integral parts of Ron Barwick's life throughout his many years in Elk Point. A lifetime member of the Lakeland Tourist Association, Barwick spent many years as a director of the LTA and promoted Elk Point far and wide at trade shows and other events.

Carving, designing and painting a huge flock of wooden ducks has led Kost Pawlyk to be known across Canada as a folk artist. His ducks, with their brightly colored wooden wings spinning in passing breezes, have been displayed at Expo '86, and as far away as Ottawa.

One of the first golfers to try out the Elk Point course each spring is Bill Milholland, who often outgolf fellow enthusiasts a half or quarter of his age, and thinks nothing of going out for another round after taking on his rivals in a tournament, and adding yet another to his sizeable collection of trophies.

Elk Point's seniors—they're the greatest!

PIONEER CIRCLE GARAGE SALE—Elk Point Pioneer Circle would like to express their appreciation to all who donated articles for their Garage Sale last week. Special thanks to Vince's Furniture Store for all the articles donated. Proceeds from the sale went to the Pioneer Circle Building Fund.

The hazards of June

By Irene Magnusson

Anyone has merely to open his or her eyes, on a day such as this, to know we have entered June, the most "everything" month of the year.

We know June is the shortest month. Oh, I know there are a few others with the same number of calendar days - but none goes by so fast. As with any time span, when we are thoroughly enjoying it, the time of June takes wing, and will be gone almost before we realize it's here.

Scotting along, at break-neck speed, the days before the longest day of the year fly by, as the nights diminish in length, until it never really gets dark at all. Then, suddenly, we are past it, on the downhill slide toward the shortest day, and winter, and all those unthinkable things.

For the very young, it's counting the days, crossing them off on the calendar, until school is out and they are FREE again. (Or so we adults think.) Some of us, as I recall, enjoyed school, and felt very let-down and rudderless, when the last day was over. (No more lunches to eat out on the porch, no access all summer to the school library, no boys sliding caterpillars down our shirt neck...) Mosquito bites and a too-hot sun are hazards of June to the young and tender.

For the older youngsters, if they have survived the hazards of graduation, they will probably spend the best part of June straining their brains to somehow consolidate the learnings of the past term into passing marks, to worry over a summer job, or summer holidays, if they are either unfortunate enough to not get a summer job, or fortunate enough not to need one.

June is a hazardous time for the soft-of-heart, the time when Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" will be cajoling white-gowned, blushing brides down the aisle in packed churches, sweeping resisting young men off their pre-plotted bachelor routines, causing shops to rejoice in the splurge of gift-wrapped purchases. For June, of all months, is spring - and in spring, anyone's fancy may well turn to thoughts of love.

Other hazards, popping up in June, I think more than any other time, would include the numbers of recreation vehicles seen on the roads, for nothing sends us off to the lakes and parks and the far blue hills more readily than the blue skies of June.

Any day of the week will see them moving, but Friday-nights to Sunday-nights will be prime time. Many of us older campers, who are now off the week-day time schedules, will wander afield any day of the week. The hazards to the lake inhabitants must be great, in June, and I wouldn't want to be a hungry fish just then - or any time, in fact.

Closer to home, in this joyful, lovely month, barbeques will be getting brisk workouts, despite the mosquitos - if any - and perhaps even despite the caterpillars, while patio furniture and the raised decks come into their own.

Out-grown swimsuits will have to be replaced; while every boat-owner will be inspecting his craft, painting, caulking, re-fitting, or merely hooking its trailer onto his vehicle. (Funny how we always refer to a boat as "his" - I wonder if there are any women who own boats and actually use them?) They aren't actually 'woman-friendly', are they? Sort of like a bank - everything sized to the six-foot customer, who, of course, is supposed to be the one handling the money.

June hovers over the producers of food. The farmer will be watching for insects and weeds, all hazards to his plantings, and arraying his defenses against them, with costly sprays and dustings. A thousand million creepy-crawlies are lurking, once the frost is gone, once the crop is seeded and coming up, ready to dine in luxury on those seedlings, to nest and multiply and devour that which the sower of the seed rightfully claims as his. Vying for the space and moisture that seedling needs, will be other millions of grasses, weeds, and volunteer plants, all of which must be defended against.

The other food grower, the gardener, will be on the look-out for hazards to his/her crops, too. June hatches cutworms, thrips, slugs, maggots, grasshoppers, you name it, and all are hungry for the seedlings and plants in our gardens. In this first week of June, we are not really safe yet from the hazard of a late frost, but we can always hope there will be no more of that.

June can bring hot, dry days to weaken and stunt, or over-whelming rainfall (oh, yeah?) to flood the land, but worst to see, would be a devastating hailstorm - not usual, but possible. Strong winds can pose a threat, too.

So how to handle these thirty days of late spring sun, of blue skies and cotton clouds, of birdsong and wild flowers, of endless day and soft warm nights? She spoils us for the other months, making us soft and over-expectant, thinking we have all summer to bask in the sun, to savor the warmth, to be caressed by the fragrant breezes, laden with scent of summer. Wild roses bedeck June, lady slippers and bluebells, lilacs and appleblossoms. Our greatest hazard is that we not appreciate these few precious, jeweled days.

ELK POINT LIBRARY — Took last Friday's Story Hour to Heritage Lodge, where they shared their stories with the seniors.

What's news at the library?

On Friday the "Travelling Tales" Preschool Storytime group visited the residents of Heritage Lodge. Fifteen excited children walked to the lodge and participated in stories, the puppet "Little Red Riding Hood" and some favorite songs. The children really enjoyed the outing and we hope to visit again soon. Thanks to Alvina Schuhmacher and the residents of the Heritage Lodge for making this enjoyable storytime possible.

Parents our next stop with "Travelling Tales" will be the Hospital on June 9th. We will meet at the library at 10:30 a.m. and walk over. Please come and join us.

As summer gets closer and closer so does the Summer Reading Program. The theme this year is "Dinosaurs", (Be a Bookasaurus)! So children be ready for an exciting, action packed summer.

We will be setting up a display of library materials during Seniors Awareness Day, June 9th, at the Elks Hall between 1:30 p.m. and 4:00 p.m.

In conjunction with this, there will also be a tour of the library, a slide show and a book draw at the library. The library has plenty to offer the older people of this community. So, please drop over and take part in this presentation! You could be pleasantly surprised!

In Memoriam

McFadyen, Gordon

In loving memory of Gordon McFadyen who passed away June 10, 1988. This month comes with deep regret. It brings back the day we can't forget.

In our hearts you will always stay Loved and remembered day by day. Memories are treasures no one can steal

Death is a heartache no one can heal. Life must go on, we know that is true But it's not the same since we lost you.

You left quietly, without saying goodbye

But memories of you will never die.

Always remembered, sadly missed, Barrie, Chris and Family.

Starscope

By Eileen Norby

Since the moon is the nearest heavenly body, let's moon gaze! We've all heard of the "man on the moon". Who among us haven't been frightened or laughed nervously as Larry Talbot (alias the wolfman) goes through his changes under a full moon? The full moon with a faint wisp of cloud floating by is a classic mainstay of any horror film. We laugh—after all, it's only a movie. The moon does affect plant life on earth. It took a trip to the moon by Neil Armstrong and experiments with moon rocks, moon dust, to determine whether it is harmful to earth's plants. There is plenty of evidence of the moon's power. From the moment we are born, we are affected by the electromagnetic forces of the planets.

Aries (Mar 21 - Apr 19)

Personal magnetism is highlighted. Be selective, stick to solid ground, confide in family member. The pace is slow, try to be patient. Your efforts will be rewarded. Someone finds you attractive. Take what you can get and enjoy yourself. Stand tall!

Taurus (Apr 20 - May 20)

Emphasize glamor, mystery, intrigue. Tough chores take a toll on your health. You fret over the future so map out a lifestyle change. See people as they really are, not as you'd like them to be. Emotions run strong. Good news from afar comes your way.

Gemini (May 21 - Jun 21)

Full moon gives you a chance to go for broke. The week schedule has you rushed when you'd rather stay home. Wishes come true! Don't just sit there, make it happen. You are introduced to a dynamite person, someone who you have long wanted to meet. Go for it!

Cancer (Jun 21 - Jul 22)

That green-eyed goddess, Jealousy, is rearing her ugly head again, causing you many anxious moments needlessly. Make an effort to control this insecurity and put everything back into perspective. Spend time enjoying yourself. Stop and sniff the roses Cancer!

Leo (Jul 23 - Aug 22)

Battle over finances prove you're right. Full moon stirs up emotional storms. Don't let a situation in which you are involved run you instead of you running it. Member of the opposite sex thinks you're fascinating. Remember, Leo is the leader over everything.

Virgo (Aug 23 - Sept 22)

You feel as if there just aren't enough hours in a day. Bear in mind you have only so much energy and if you overtax your strength could affect your health physically. You are extremely dedicated to baseball right now. Lovely summer days ahead for you Virgo!

Libra (Sept 23 - Oct 23)

Family obligations take up much of your time this week, however, find time for your own private pleasures. Aim for harmony that is important. Moon in your sign highlights originality, sex appeal.

Scorpio (Oct 23 - Nov 21)

You'll encounter a "fiery" individual who challenges, inspires. Information previously withheld will be released—concerns money! Be ready to take a greater charge of your own destiny. Good lunar aspect coincides with communication. Let the chips fall where they may.

Sagittarius (Nov 22 - Dec 21)

Promises are easy to make but keeping them is another story. This could be a rather expensive weekend for you. You are certainly drifting in the wrong direction. Lucky Escaping from responsibility with a short trip. Right up your alley. "Breaking bread" in politics again Sagittarius!

Capricorn (Dec 22 - Jan 19)

You know where you stand with that special person. Domestic front is cool. Revamp your budget and streamline your techniques. Ideas put aside will surface. Be confident, things look crucial but will swing in your favor. The devil take tomorrow, live for today Capricorn.

Aquarius (Jan 20 - Feb 18)

You'll receive information which comes as no surprise. You are sentimental lately. Major domestic adjustment will take place in June. A financial gain but reform your budget with "creative accounting" Aquarius way. Be smart, keep thoughts to yourself today.

Pisces (Feb 19 - Mar 20)

Accent diplomacy, play the waiting game again Pisces. Family member makes what may appear to be an outlandish request. Upon contemplation, however, the unorthodox will prove to be the best course.

FOODS, CLOTHING AND DECORATING WINNER—Kim Kurek accepts her prize from Millie Orr of Millie's Flowers, for the aggregate win in all three categories.

THIRD YEAR WOODWORKING WINNER—Dale Pinder is congratulated by Project Leader John Tilton

1989 Achievement Day

Elk Point 4-H Multi Club members showed their achievements in Food, Clothing, Interior Design, Woodworking, Self Determined, Steer, Heifer and Cow-Calf projects Saturday, with a good crowd of spectators in attendance.

The afternoon portion of the program started with the introduction of members, leaders, judges and special guests from Alberta Agriculture. Regional 4-H Specialist Yvonne Love and District Home Economist Monica King later addressed the group briefly, complimenting the members on a successful year. MLA John Drobot brought greetings from the Province, and added his congratulations on the well completed projects.

The three members in Food, Clothing and Interior Design projects, Kim Kurek, Jodi Vogel and Elena Drobot, demonstrated tie-dyeing of fabrics, as well as making a simple confection, as part of their project work.

The Grand Aggregate award, donated by Millie's Flowers and Crafts for the member most proficient in all three projects, went to Kim Kurek, who also won individual ribbons in Project Book and Interior Decorating. Jodi Vogel won individual ribbons in the Foods and Clothing categories, while all three girls were presented with a small gift by leader Cheri Lindquist. Louise Coulter-Chomlak judged the projects.

Self-Determined Project member Leanne Drobot was presented with a plaque from the Lakeland Review. Her project involved collecting recipes and reminiscences from present and past 4-H members and leaders, and compiling these into a booklet entitled 'Meals, Munchies and Memories.'

Woodworking leader John Tilton reported difficult decisions for judge Leslie Parkinson, with inclusion of the project books in judging necessary to break a tie between the first year members, and only a few points separating the third year members.

Gift certificates from Imperial Lumber were presented to First Year Winner David Naber and Third Year Winner Dale Pinder. Other first year members are Jonathan Kadutski, Lee Kadutski, Richard Piotrowski and Robert Vankosky, while Cody Kurek and Bruce Nelson are also third year members.

Following presentation of gifts to leaders and judges, and certificates and pins to sponsors, everyone enjoyed a lunch supplied by the Elk Point Hotel and Tim's Feeds.

Metis Settlements

Finance management and controls

This is the fifth in a series of articles on the Alberta-Settlements Accord - the proposed agreement between the Metis Settlements and the Alberta Government on Settlement land, government, and finance. The Accord is subject to the approval of the Settlement members in a referendum to be held on June 20. This article deals with financial management and controls in the Accord.

The Alberta-Settlements Accord provides for financial management and controls on Settlement finances in both the proposed Finance Agreement and the proposed Metis Settlements Act. As the local governing authority, Settlement Council is the basic organization that deals with finances under the proposed system. There are, however, management, administrative, and accountability requirements associated with the spending of funds under the agreement. In the new system, controls on Settlement finances come from Settlement members, the Minister, and the other 7 Settlements.

Under the system that currently operates at the Settlements, the Minister has all the legal spending authority. The real spending power, however, has gradually shifted to the Settlements over the past decade. The problem has been that there is no specific legal requirement for Council to be financially responsible to Settlement members or to the Province. This unclear situation has led to financial problems in some cases.

The Alberta-Settlements Accord establishes a new legal system for Settlement finances. Essentially, Settlements are given legal recognition for the authority they have been exercising for the past decade. Along with this authority come requirements for Council to use that authority responsibly and in accordance with the wishes of the Settlement members.

With the Alberta-Settlements Accord, the Settlement members will have the ultimate authority over all important financial issues. Settlement members approve Council's proposed budget each year. The budget is the basic financial plan for the Settlement for the year. It is the plan for what and how much the Settlement will spend its money on - housing, roads, recreation, etc. Council must present its budget plan to the people in a General Meeting in the form of a by-law. To be approved, this budget by-law must be supported by a majority of the members attending the meeting. Two weeks notice must be given for the meeting and the notice must include written copies of the proposed budget.

Members have a chance to review how the budget plan has worked as well. Council must post and make public all financial statements and reports. Council must also call a General Meeting each year to present the audited financial statements and to report on the year's activities.

As far as levies and taxes concerned, these are also subject to the by-law process - in other words, they must be approved by the members. This is different from the current Act where the Minister sets the levies at whatever level he considers to be appropriate - currently at $10 per allocation. Under the new system, no change can be made to levies without the approval of the members.

On the matter of the management and administration of Settlement funds, the Accord establishes some basic accountability requirements and calls for joint administration of funds by the Province and the Settlements during the 7 year Transition period. It is during this 7 year Transition Period from 1990 - 1997 when funding will be provided to build up the Settlement communities - building basic infrastructure, recreation facilities, economic development projects, etc. It is hoped that joint administration of funds during this period will ensure that funds are properly managed as it sets the basis for the Settlements' future.

Joint administration of funds is to be accomplished by a Metis Settlements Transition Commission. The Commission is appointed by and reports to both the Provincial Cabinet and the Metis Settlements General Council (the 8 Settlement Councils). The Commissioner and Commission staff will likely be chosen from the Settlements and from government. In any case, key appointments have to be agreed to by both sides.

The Commission will essentially replace the current Metis Settlements Branch and the General Council. The idea is to have the bulk of these organizations' responsibilities transfer to the Settlements over the 7 year Transition Period. Both of these organizations will continue to have a role after the Transition, but the idea is to move the real power to the local level - where the people have the check on Council.

The Commission will ensure that the Alberta-Settlements Accord is properly implemented and that the Settlements are able to meet their financial and other responsibilities under the new system of local government. This means that much of its work will be to assist Settlements and their people to build up their administrative and management skills.

Specifically on the administration of funds, the Commission will ensure that Councils spend funds according to their budget by-law approved by the members. The Commission will also ensure that the Settlements use sound management and accounting practices. In some cases, the Commission will take more of a hands on role in delivering and administering programs - but this should decrease over time as the Settlements take on more and more.

It is important to note that although the legislation will establish a life of 7 years for the Commission, it can last a longer or shorter period if both the Settlements and the Province agree that a change is appropriate.

Heinsburg Class of '89 "Forever Young"

The eleven members of Heinsburg Community School's Class of '89 were presented with rose-bound scrolls and showered with congratulations Friday night, as families and friends gathered to celebrate their Grade 12 Graduation.

Following the banquet and a series of toasts, the graduands filed through a pillared archway decked with pink, lilac and white streamers and balloons to the strains of their theme song, 'Forever Young,' to take their place beneath a cutout of a baby in a grad hat holding the strings of balloons bearing the names and baby pictures of each member of the class.

Crystal Fayant and Rhonda Laboucane recited the invocation, which continued the 'Forever Young' theme.

Principal Laverne Wilson brought greetings from Member of Parliament Deborah Grey, and MLA John Drobot to 'the final class of the 'eighties,' and noted that they are fortunate to be missing the educational system changes which will be implemented in the 1990s. 'This changing world has great expectations of you,' he told the class, 'and your parents, your teachers and your community know you can meet the challenge.'

Student Council President Sheila McGillis wished the grads happiness and fulfillment in their futures.

Deputy Superintendent of Schools Carmen Brodziak presented the commemorative scrolls, each beautifully adorned with roses crafted by school staff member Marie Zayac.

Further insight into the earlier years of each grad was given by teacher Marjorie Carter, a ten-year member of the Heinsburg School staff, who had a few humorous remarks to make about each of the eleven. As they go out into the world, she advised them to 'do your duty and a little more, and the future will take care of itself.'

Graduand Jason Kinch had the pleasant duty of passing the school colors to Grade 11 student Beverley Cardinal.

Roger Osinchuk delivered a delightful valedictory address, likening graduation to leaving a cosy nest, and finding that often, 'the first direction is down.' The first day of college, the first job interview will be 'our first wobbly flight...we must not be afraid to get up and try again...and to set our goals high.' He asked the grads to remember their parents' ongoing efforts, noting that 'they'll still be there whenever they can be,' and whimsically wondering 'how much they'll enjoy pushing us out of the nest.'

A special presentation was made to Principal Wilson by Monica Cardinal on behalf of the class.

Guest speaker for the evening was former County of St. Paul Superintendent of Schools Bill Webb, who is now with the Wainwright School Division.

GUEST SPEAKER—Bill Webb

Webb said that 'every superintendent has his favorite schools,' and he numbers Heinsburg among his, because of 'the fabulous mix of families, community and school coming together.' Webb reminisced about the 2000-plus school lunches each grad has eaten, the nearly 4500 school bus rides provided by safe and caring school bus drivers, and the teachers who have helped to shape each of the graduands' lives.

Regarding advice to the grads as they go out in the world, Webb discounted 'you are what you eat—which could make you fruits...nuts...or flakes...so much for that!' and suggested that 'things aren't always what they seem,' in the days of instant this and instant that. His advice, after attending 60 grads and 'hearing it all,' would be to 'remember the Golden Rule. God's gift to you is your life, your gift to God is what you do with it.' As a final word of good-natured advice, he added that 'the hand that lifts the cup that cheers must not be used to shift the gears.'

Henry Paulgaard was Master of Ceremonies for the exercises, while Lorne Young was the banquet MC. Young offered the toast to the grads, with Sandra Womacks replying, 'it's been a great year.' Twila Smith, the final member of her family to graduate after a total of 30 years of Smiths at the school, gave a poetic toast to the parents, with Jenny Kinch in reply asking the grads to 'excuse us if we get a little sentimental.' Doreen Waskahat and Sandra Womacks toasted the teachers, with Laverne Wilson replying that it is the students who help to keep the teachers 'forever young.'

Rhonda LaBoucane, Sandra Womacks, Crystal Fayant and Monica Cardinal.

Today's teenagers trust this complex instrument:

A parent's ear. It can collect information easily and impartially and these days, it's doing so very well. The proof is in the way teenagers and their parents are talking things out. More than ever before, teens are giving their parents the opportunity to listen. Parents are letting kids know that they care; that they're interested and informed. And that's important, because when it comes right down to it, you are the major influence in their lives. You should feel encouraged to hear that your teenagers agree.

Vol. 1 No. 1

Exhibit the place to be this weekend

The place to be this coming weekend will be at St. Paul's Exhibit '89. The three-day show opens Friday afternoon and promises to be great entertainment for the entire family.

The trade fair provides business with the unequalled opportunity to display their goods and services. At the same time, area consumers have a chance to do a little window shopping, see some of the new products on the market and learn what services are available to them.

With more than 70 exhibitors on hand a wide variety of goods and services will be displayed.

Another feature attraction will be the stock dog competition which runs Friday at 7 p.m. in the Cap Arena and again on Saturday at 1 p.m. This is something new for St. Paul and should prove to be an exciting event for spectators.

A safety show in the curling rink should also be of interest to many. Local specialists will demonstrate used types of equipment used for rescue and the promotion of safety. Representatives of the fire department will be demonstrating the jaws of life.

Of course, the midway will also be in town providing some hair-raising rides for the young and old alike.

Also look for Alberta Power's "live wire" display, Petro Canada's huge tank truck, the Kinsmen and Kinette junk tank and game wheel, and if the weather is good, AGT's hot air balloon.

And for those who are in the mood to kick up their heels, the show again opens at 5 p.m. to give exhibitors the time to do it. Mule Train will be performing at the social in the Rec Centre getting underway at 9 p.m.

Exhibit '89 opens Friday at 3 p.m. through to 9 p.m. Saturday things get underway at noon and the fun continues right through until 9 p.m. Sunday the show again opens at noon but will close its doors at 5 p.m. to give exhibitors the chance to clean and pack up before heading home for another year.

Farley's Forecast
